THE LOUISIANA DEBATE.

CONCLUSION OF SENATOR CONKLING'S SPEECH.

At the expiration of the morning hour, on Friday, Senator Conkling took the floor and resumed his argument in regard to Louisiana.

Mr. Conkling reminded the Senate that the President was a stranger to the whole proceedings, and was not aware of them until after they were over, and that Gen. Sheridan was not in command nor even a spectator of the events on the morning of the 4th inst., and recited the laws of Louisiana, constitutional and statutory, which deposited certain power exclusively with certain persons.

A DEFENCE OF THE MILITARY "HIRELINGS."

He recited the flagrant acts of violence and lawlessness, and gathered facts showing that the attempt of the Conservatives in Louisiana to capture one house of the Legislature was a step to revolutionize the State Government and take it from those who held it. In the presence of all the turbulence, disorder and din which ruled the hour in that room in a distant city, Senators said, that everything there was peaceful, that the Governor and all others should have remained silent spectators. The Republican party, the President of the United States, and much of the residue of mankind had been threatened with destruction, because those whom Gov. Kellogg summoned and who responded were soldiers, soldiers of the United States. Hirelings they were called by the Honorable Senator from Maryland (Hamilton). He said they were hirelings, and withered them by saying they received only $8 a month. Hirelings! But for such hirelings there might not now be a Senate chamber to reverberate with the eloquence of the Honorable Senator from Maryland. But for these hirelings we would not be permitted to breathe the air of a free republic. This remnant of our army must remain somewhere, but if found south of Mason and Dixon's line somebody's nobility was offended. The soldiers that the nation found in that section were buried under the anathemas of that party, branded with the epithets of carpet-bagger, scallawags, white niggers and the like. Their lot was a hard one. One political party never called soldiers hirelings until they were summoned to trample down a rebellion which lifted its bloody hands to stab the republic to the heart. It was not always so. The Democratic party was once the soldiers' party and the war party. It applauded the soldiers in former wars and sighed for new wars, for Cuba and conquests, but this was in what was once free America. He borrowed the words from the honorable Senator from Ohio (Thurman). This was once where slavery needed room to expand. In 1811, when Andrew Jackson set a military guard over both Houses of the Louisiana Legislature and imprisoned a Judge, the Democratic party glorified him and made him President of the United States. When a Democratic Executive, and a Democratic Secretary of War dispersed and humiliated both Houses of a State Legislature, Congress and the country rang with Democratic plaudits. That was one page in one of the most revolting chapters in the history of human tyranny and wrong.

BORDER RUFFIANISM.

Those who occupied seats around him remembered the occurrences when violence, invasion and outrage, carrying the banner of human slavery, stalked with high hand on Kansas, trampling the laws and right under foot. Did the Democrats apologize for it? Did the predecessors of these Senators apologize for it? No, they only sought to laugh it out of court, they only sought to smoke it under with ridicule. Bleeding Kansas! He remembered how that cant flew at the masthead of Democratic papers. There was no apology. Oh, no! Border ruffianism in Kansas was derided in this chamber just as Southern outrages are now. The honorable Senator from Ohio (Thurman), astute as he is, would not make an apology for those outrages.

THE WRONG OX GORED.

Mr. Conkling here read from the report of the Committee which investigated the Kansas troubles, and said when Gen. Sherman, commanding men whose bayonets flashed in the sun, entered the Legislative hall of that State, he declared the duty the most painful of his life, and by force he compelled the retirement of the Legislature. Again, at a municipal election in Washington in 1856, under a Democratic Administration, the United States marines fired upon the crowd, killing five and wounding seventeen, yet there was not even an investigation by the Democrats in Congress. Again, in 1869, Gen. McClellan, through Gen. Banks, arrested as many members of the Maryland Legislature as he could, Maryland not being in secession at the time, yet the Democratic party, at the first opportunity, afterward strove to make McClellan President on a peace platform, a platform devised by a convention which brought out the whole constitutional army, which pelted him with all their arrows, and heaped upon him all the denunciations of their brilliant vocabulary. The Democratic party always was the keeper of the Constitution, and during the war it was in charge of the Democracy, North and South. The Northern wing and the Southern wing vied with each other in their zeal to guard and protect that sacred instrument.

WHO ARE "HIRELINGS."

He next referred to the arrest of Burns in 1851 in Boston, and said he was arrested for crime of being a black man. The Army and Navy, under a Democratic President, gathered about the spot, and Federal bayonets, were thick. John Brown was tried by a court in a sovereign State, and the gibbet upon which he died quaked with the tramp of Federal regiments and the rumble of Federal artillery. Yes, soldiers are hirelings; Senators are hirelings; a great body of American people are hirelings; but no man forfeits his citizenship or his rights in this country by being a hireling. Soldiers are citizens. Their uniform does not deprive them of this attribute, nor does it relieve them of the duties of citizens. Mr. Conkling argued that soldiers could be called upon as a posse comitatus in quelling a disturbance the same as citizens, and in support of his argument sent to the Clerk's desk and had read from the law of riot compiled by Wise, a British Baronet. Resuming, he said a loud outcry might scare forty millions of people and made them fear their liberties were in danger; that they were in peril of being trampled down by an army of 25,000 men scattered by corporal guards all over the continent. It may be that these three men in blue pantaloons who in New Orleans the other day accosted wrongdoers and trespassers, and made them change their seats from one place to another in the same room, should have been three other men dressed in other pantaloons. Mr. Stoughton, a patriot and a jurist, says that it would have been more regular had Gov. Kellogg first called upon the soldiers of Louisiana, and had they been inadequate to the task of quelling the disturbance, then upon the soldiers of the United States. It may be so. If a disturbance existed, Kellogg might easily have been misled by the fact that the Democrats or Conservatives first declared that the military power of the United States might be evoked, appointed a committee to wait on the military, received that military with approbation and returned to it the thanks of the State of Louisiana. Wiltz and his conservatives, it seemed, still wanted the interference of the military, as Mr. Wiltz had addressed the President some very respectful interrogatories and urgently demanded that troops of the United States be ordered to restore the House to the position it occupied before the interference. This Conservative Speaker, this incarnation of the law-abiding spirit of the Democratic party, now, after the great lights of the party had spoken here, addressed the President, asking him to march soldiers of the United States into the halls of the Legislature of Louisiana and reseat him in the chair.

IS THE COUNTRY SAFE?

Mr. Conkling read from a memorial of Wiltz, and resuming his argument, said that he was only looking to see if it was really true, as charged here, that never since the separation of the colonies from Great Britain had there been such danger to the country. Was it true that the pillars of the temple of the Republic were about to crumble, that civil liberty was about to fade, and that the Republic was about to fold its tents like the Arabs and as silently steal away? He was done with one scene just enacted in the sad history of Louisiana and now turned to another. What was the excuse for the disturbance there?

DEMOCRATIC ROBBERY AND CORRUPTION IN NEW YORK.

What was the apology for the commotion on her borders? The plea was heard from the Senator from Ohio that it was that Kellogg was not in truth elected, but was falsely counted in. Suppose he was. Did that justify the causeless horrors which have stained the annals of the State? Other States have known deeper wrongs than Louisiana. New York had known deeper wrongs. It was an open secret now that in 1868, John T. Hoffman was counted into the office of Governor when the people had elected John A. Griswold. The count was falsified more than 30,000 in two counties. John T. Hoffman was falsely counted in.—Who did it? The managers of the Democratic party, and they seated in the Legislature, year after year, men whom the people had voted down at the ballot box. The same regime made the courts, and made them corrupt. They issued fraudulent naturalization papers by tens of thousands.—They appointed returning boards and made them corrupt. They appointed inspectors of election who polluted and debauched the ballot-box. They so divided the chief city of the State as to bisect blocks and houses so that men domiciled in the same house could vote and repeat in different election districts. They held a State of five millions by the throat for four years by such astounding means. A political party dominated that great State, usurped the power and plundered her treasury by the most colossal robberies of modern times.

WHAT DID THE REPUBLICANS DO?

They did not resort to ruthless violence; they did not resort to the blade, the bullet, and the torch; did not rob and butcher men, women and children; they did not seize the chief city of the State, barricade its streets and shoot down its police. No, they persevered in peaceful efforts.—They asked Congress to break the hold of the organized fraud on the ballot-box, that the citizens of New York might vote. How was the prayer received in this chamber by the Democrats? The people of New York were blasted with all the constitutional anathemas of the Democracy. Those who remained in this chamber mute, while they were pelted with storms of denunciation, have not forgotten the history nor the cost of this legislation. But the law was passed, and for the first time for years there was an election in New York approaching fairness. A leading Democratic paper called upon the populace to arm and pitch the officers of the election into the river, but not a hair was laven with some gear of the river and back of the Federal power. They did not arm themselves.

A DIFFERENT COURSE PURSUED IN LOUISIANA.

How different was the course of the men in Louisiana, who complained of fraud and dishonest elections. Thirty-five hundred murders and woundings in eight years, says Sheridan, for political purposes.—Search the annals of history, search the tearful story of man's inhumanity to man, and when, in modern times can you find the picture of such God daring and man hating monstrosity. Finally, in September, under the formal proclamation of Penn, the Government was seized by open revolution and her citizens shot down.—Was it any wonder her securities had lessened in value! Show him a mode of pacifying the South, and no matter what party opposed it, his vote it should have. No party could live to stand in the way of pacification of the South.

WHAT THE PEOPLE WANT.

Bluster and revolution will not pacify the Southern people. Bloodshed will not make friends nor wealth. If he had power to make his voice heard and believed in every Southern hamlet, in the sincerity of his heart he would say: Build, mend, heal, sow, plant—in short, go to work. Let a fair day's wages be paid for a fair day's work, dwell together in fraternity, and all will be well. The honorable Senator (Thurman) said the record was the National Police Gazette, and he did not like it. He (Conkling) would tell the Senator how to stop it. Dismount the masked riders, disband the White Leagues, discontinue the bloody assizes of the Democratic party, and then the record will cease to be the National Police Gazette.

"LET THE OPPRESSED GO FREE."

When the fate of the nation trembled in the uncertain balance of war the colored people struck no blow against it. They prayed for the Union, and the American people said they should be free. They imbedded their all within the bulwarks of the Constitution. The nation forgave its enemies, but at the same time conferred the right of the ballot and self-government upon those who had been oppressed for centuries. They were made citizens. There stand the amendments to the Constitution. Civilization is for them, the nation is for them, God is for them, and political parties and revolutionists shall not prevail against them. Social equality is no part of them, but hate and pride rebel against them. This is the moral rebellion of to-day. Drop it in good faith, manlike, and the South will be tranquil in a year. Who doubts it? His friend before him (alluding to Mr. Howe) says in sixty days. He (Conkling) guessed so.—This was the issue in the South. He feared for a while it would remain the issue, but those most concerned could untie the knot. Those who have their confidence can persuade them to discontinue the outrages.—Peace would not be brought about by falsifying the truth. It would not be brought about by denials worse than apologies for wrong. It would come sooner or later in an honest manly acquiescence in the system under which we live, the best system of human government mankind has yet known, although, like everything human, it sometimes falls short of working out full, exact and even justice.

THE KITTERY NAVY YARD.

[From the Lewiston Journal.]

The Senate committee on naval affairs visited the several navy yards and marine hospitals along the coast last summer, with a view to considering the expediency of reducing their number, in the interests of administrative economy. The committee, through Mr. Sargent, one of its members, has just reported to the Senate. It is recommended that the yards at Washington, at Philadelphia, and at New London, be dispensed with, as unnecessary to the service.

In regard to the Kittery navy yard, the committee states that the yard proper has an area of sixty-six acres, and an available water front of one mile in extent, a portion of it very deep water. The depth of water along the front of this yard is greater than at any other yard in the country, and no dredging is ever required. In 1866, a contiguous island, called Seavey's Island, was purchased by the government at a cost of $105,000. It contains 105 acres and will add a mile of deep water front to the yard. The committee finds that Kittery is well and conveniently arranged for a small yard, and that the quays, walls, docks, and buildings are of the best and most substantial character. A steam vessel can be built at the yard complete,—engines, spars, hulls, boilers and all. There is here one of the best floating docks in the country. The island immediately adjacent to the yard, is so situated that it could be fortified in an inexpensive and effective manner.

The admirable character of the improvements in the yard proper, its unrivalled water front, with thirteen hundred feet of excellent granite wharf, the great value of the station as a harbor of refuge for ships infected with fevers from long cruises in tropical climates, and the number of skilled workmen who have been trained in this yard and in yards all along the coast of Maine are the weighty considerations which have induced the committee to recommend the retention of this port. The site and improvements have already cost the government upwards of four million dollars, and if they should be abandoned, this immense property would become comparatively valueless.

While the movement toward the reduction of expenses in the navy and other departments, is one which the people of Maine will heartily endorse, they can but be gratified that the navy yard within the limits of their State is pronounced so admirable in its arrangements and valuable to the nation that it is actually a measure of economy for the government to retain it.

A BRUTAL OUTRAGE

[From the Chicago Tribune.]

The St. Louis Times, the Bourbon organ of Missouri, prints the following brutal and cold-blooded paragraph in a recent issue:

"Mr. J. H. Oglesby was not compelled to resign the Presidency of the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce. After his extraordinary testimony in behalf of the Kellogg Government, he simply found himself in a position from which the common civilities and courtesies of social life were withdrawn. A resident and business man for half a century, he awoke to the discovery that he was without a single acquaintance among reputable business men, and his bank—that had become famous as a custodian of commercial wealth—found itself in a single day without a single depositor. Mr. Oglesby was as completely alone as if he had lived in a desert. Isolated and ignored by the friends he had known for fifty years, the terrible rebuke struck home as none other could, and he resigned his commercial honors for a friendless retirement. To a nature like Mr. Oglesby's, such a manifestation of public disapproval was crushing in its effect. He now lies at the point of death."

The facts in this case are substantially these: Mr. Oglesby has been a respectable citizen and prominent business man of New Orleans for over fifty years. During all that time no taint has ever rested upon his moral reputation or commercial honor. He was summoned before the committee to testify, and, while he did not seek to justify Mr. Kellogg or his administration, when asked some questions touching Kellogg's relations to the business community, he spoke favorably of them rather than disgrace his honor by lying. Because he would not lie, he was ostracised socially and commercially, and driven into retirement and to his death bed, by men who conceded there is no such thing in Louisiana as intimidation and coercion! And this is a sample of Southern chivalry and honor! Could there be a more notable exhibition of White League hate and devilishness? If the Conservatives of Louisiana thus hound a man to his death whose honor has been kept intact for fifty years, because he will not lie and sell his honor to suit their partisan purposes, can there be any more convincing proof that they themselves have lied in their testimony?

The ostracism of Mr. Oglesby is the blackest deed the Conservatives of Louisiana have yet committed, and should bring upon them the swift condemnation of all high-minded and truthful men. This is a matter which lies outside of politics. It is a personal outrage of the gravest character which will come home to every one who has respect for truth and honor, and it shows, as nothing else could, the fiendish hate and malevolence of the Bourbons toward any man who will not prostitute his honor in their behalf. A whole lifetime of labor for the interests of his city and State, and a reputation in politics, in trade and in society, unspotted by a single disreputable act, count nothing as against his refusal to lie. This is an unpardonable offence.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL REVISION.

Our despatches have announced the probability that the Constitutional Commission will be able to complete their report so as to present it to the Legislature by the 10th inst., or a week from next Wednesday. This evidences great industry on the part of the Board, and we have no doubt that the members have striven conscientiously to give each subject as thorough consideration as the requirements of rapid progress permitted. But it can hardly be doubted that this limitation of time and the necessity for disposing of the large number of difficult questions at the earliest possible day, in order to secure action by the present Legislature, has induced a greater degree of haste than would ordinarily be deemed advisable, and we are strongly inclined to think that the members of the Commission would have preferred a more deliberate and leisurely course. However this may be, we deem it entirely inadvisable for the Legislature to attempt a final action upon the numerous and important changes proposed, at the close of the session, which will be fully employed in disposing of subjects already before the Legislature. With a liberal degree of confidence in the ability of our legislators, we do not wish to crowd them too severely, and to ask of them during the remainder of this session to dispose of the questions relating to capital punishment, railroad taxation, school affairs, expenditures and retrenchment, and a vast array of other matters, and then to calmly and judicially consider, clause by clause and sentence by sentence, the numerous important changes proposed in our organic law, would seem to be somewhat unreasonable.

Then again, the discussion of the pending questions referred to is not likely to bring the Legislature into the most desirable mood for acting upon grave constitutional issues, and business of this nature is not well adapted for disposal during the "proper sessions." The report of the Commission will come before the Legislature without that previous public discussion of its features which is calculated to aid the judgment of members, and in acting immediately upon the numerous propositions they will have no opportunity for such a consultation of public sentiment as should influence the adoption of some of the changes. To be sure the people will have opportunity to act upon the matter at the polls, but it is desirable that in so serious a work as the remodelling of the Constitution, every step should be considerately taken, and the hasty indorsement of the Legislature might work a great deal of harm.

We notice already rumors of a movement in the Legislature to refer the report to the next session, and we think such a course would be far wiser than an attempt to rush the matter through during the last weeks of the present session. It seems to us that a very sensible plan would be to pass a resolution extending the time of the Commission, instructing them to make their report to the Governor when completed, with orders for its general publication at the time, and for its formal presentation to the next Legislature. This would enable the people at large to consider all the proposed changes and insure such criticism and discussion as would be most likely to test the merits and develop any latent defects in proposed modifications.

We readily assume that the Commissioners are performing their task with much ability and with all the deliberation possible under the circumstances; but we think they will be glad to have a little more time and feel sure that it will be contrary to public policy to force action upon these serious measures during the present session. The slap-dash method may be justified in cases of actual emergency, but the Constitution of the State is a thing which it is well to "handle with care."

SPEAKER BLAINE AND BUTLER.

The Washington special of the Boston Journal writes that "General Butler is said to be greatly incensed at Speaker Blaine on account of the rulings of the latter in the protracted session of last week. Butler thinks that partisanship should have induced Blaine to have waived his strict construction of the rules, while Blaine thinks that partisanship has nothing to do with the exercise of his duties as Speaker, and that his rulings were strictly in accordance with the Constitution of the United States and the rules of the House. The two had a spirited personal discussion of the matter on Saturday afternoon on the floor of the House, in which very plain language was used. The Advertiser's special reports the matter as follows:

"The expectation that Speaker Blaine would rule against the reading of the yeas and nays in the famous journal of Wednesday was disappointed on Saturday, and the clerk began a task which would have occupied at least thirteen hours had it not been cut off at four in the afternoon by adjournment. Mr. Butler was in an ugly temper all day. Quite early in the session he went to the Speaker's desk, and had a very earnest conference with Mr. Blaine. It is said that he urged the Speaker to make a questionable ruling which would give the Republicans an immediate advantage. Failing to persuade the Speaker to make the ruling, he proposed to make his motion and have the Speaker agree to entertain an appeal, and the House divide without an explanation or a protest from the Speaker. This proposition was also refused by Mr. Blaine, and then the interview ended. Not long after, having called Mr. Negley to the chair, the Speaker took a seat on the floor, where Mr. Butler sought him, and reopened the subject. The discussion turned here on a proposition by Mr. Butler to adjourn until to-day. Mr. Blaine intimated that he should feel bound to rule such a motion out of order, to which Mr. Butler replied that there was not a justice's court in the country which had not power to adjourn to Sunday if the public business required it, and yet it appeared that the highest court in the land could not do so. Getting indignant as he proceeded, he declared that the rules of the House were a d——d fraud on the majority, and that they seemed to be designed and used to enable half a dozen leading men to control the House. As the discussion progressed Butler's language became more and more violent and personal to Mr. Blaine. Presently he raked up the encounter between himself and Blaine on the Ku-Klux bill, during the session of 1871, and charged the Speaker with keeping him off the reconstruction committee. Up to this time Mr. Blaine had answered Mr. Butler courteously, but at the last charge he replied excitedly: "General Butler! I don't wish to use harsh language, but you are saying what is not true. I offered you a place on that committee and you declined, sir,—you know you did!" It being perceived that the colloquy was exciting general attention, the subject was dropped, but the affair was presently noised about and has been the topic of general conversation to-day.

General Butler did not enjoy Speaker Blaine's ruling in the recent squabble in the House. The Speaker preferred to be just rather than generous.—Boston Journal.

THE TRANSIT OF VENUS. A despatch from San Francisco says that Drs. Peters and Harkness, of the American expedition, were the only successful observers of the transit of Venus in New Zealand. The observations at Hobartown and Campbelltown, Tasmania, were obstructed by clouds, and the first part of the transit was lost. The German party at Auckland Islands had a successful observation. December 9th was perfectly cloudless at Sydney, Woodford, Gouldbourn and Mount Victoria temporary stations. Every phase of the transit was fully observed, photographed and recorded. Cloudy weather prevented completed observations in Victoria, Tasmania and New Zealand.

It will be remembered that Mr. J. H. Oglesby, President of a leading bank, and President of the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce, testified before the Foster-Phelps sub-committee that the Kellogg Government had reduced taxes in New Orleans from six to three per cent; that it had stopped the increase of public debt, and accomplished farther reforms. With what refined malice and brutality such a witness can be punished in New Orleans is told by a Democratic Journal, as quoted from the Chicago Tribune, published on the first page.

AN ANCIENT SCANDAL. An advertisement recently appeared in London offering $5,000 for a copy of a book of memoirs of George IV, against which the Lord Chancellor issued an injunction. A man in Portland and another in Louisville, Ky., claim to have possession of a copy of the work published in 1830. It is said that the royal family of England are anxious for the destruction of the book because the marriage of King George with Mrs. Fitzherbert is proven by letters and documents taken from the royal archives. It also testifies that a child was born to Mrs. Fitzherbert while in lawful wedlock. This would open up a disagreeable controversy over the line of succession.

THE CHILDREN'S DELIGHT. Thousands of bright-eyed little-folks will justify our application of this term to the "St. Nicholas Magazine," which Messrs. Scribner & Co., of New York, are making superior in every way to any other child's publication ever issued. A work which fully merits the following tribute from Charles Dudley Warner, is one of which the publishers and managers may well be proud:

"I have watched the magazine every month of its existence, and have seen its beauties of pen and pencil unfold, but I am surprised, now that it becomes a book—and as handsome a book as St. Nicholas himself can hope to find on Christmas—by the variety and wealth of its contents. Never before, I think, has so much literary and artistic talent co-operated in the service of children, and I will not resist the hearty impulse to say to you that you have made the best magazine for children of all ages I have ever seen; it is even more entertaining for grown people than some of the quarterlies. I know the ideal Mrs. Dodge had for it, and her desire that it should exert a sweet and ennobling influence in the households of the land. It has been made level with the comprehensions of children, and yet it is a continual educator of their taste, and of their honor and courage. I do not see how it can be made any better, and if the children don't like it, I think it is time to change the kind of children in this country."

Those who have heard "the rebel yell," may, in the subjoined description, from the St. Louis Journal, of the proceedings after General Cockrell's nomination as United States Senator, recognize that old familiar sound:

"The scene in the rotunda beggars description. The great mass of humanity surged to and fro, some cheering madly, others hooting and cursing, and all excited to the highest possible pitch. The rebel element here manifested itself prominently. 'B——, we've beat 'em at last!' 'Yes,—con' the Gray has scooped the Blue this time! Mebbe we hain't just crawled out of the brush!' 'Woop her up, boys, and see how old Grant likes the rebel yell this time!' These were the cries that resounded through the halls of the old Capitol building, the like of which have not been heard since the dark days of treason and 1861."

A NARROW ESCAPE. Saturday night, when the train from Lewiston to Bath was about three miles below Brunswick, the axles of both drivers broke, while the train was making fifteen to twenty miles an hour. The connection kept the wheels from falling out, and the other drivers did not leave the track. The engineer felt the engine settle, and the train was stopped after running the distance of six telegraph poles. Superintendent Brown was on board, and walked back to Brunswick, where he summoned a train from Bath to come up for the passengers, who reached Bath at about 12 o'clock. A wrecking train cleared the road during the night. It was by the greatest good fortune that a serious accident was avoided.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

There is great curiosity to see Nast's tribute to Andy Johnson's election.

There will be only one Smith in the 44th Congress—an unusually small delegation from that family.

Jay Gould is reported to have cleared over $1,000,000 by the raid on the Pacific Mail. He is said to be the only man who has made any large amount of money in Wall street during the past year.

No shrewd actor now travels in the South without having the play of "Richelieu" in his repertoire. When, as the Cardinal, he says, "Take away the sword; States may be saved without it," he has time to go out and count the evening's receipts before the applause, which "rises and falls, swells into thunder and dies away, only to rise again," finally subsides.—Chicago Times.

Senator Frelinghuysen, in his recent speech, pointing out the requisites of Republican government, well said:

"If the usurper of power at that imminent moment when the transfer or succession of government is being made, can by stratagem, by a coup d'etat, wrest it from those designated by law, what folly is it to have armies to protect lawful government? For why should usurpers ever peril their lives to get that power which they can get by seizing, stealing, thieving? Why clothe sovereign power with a coat of mail if you leave a joint in the harness open where the spear of the usurper may reach the very heart of government?"

CONSUMPTIVES, TAKE NOTICE.

Every moment of delay makes your cure more hopeless, and much depends on the judicious choice of a remedy. The amount of testimony in favor of Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, as a cure for consumption, far exceeds all that can be brought to support the pretensions of any other medicine. See Dr. Schenck's Almanac, containing the certificates of many persons of the highest respectability, who have been restored to health, after being pronounced incurable by physicians of acknowledged ability. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many, as these evidences will show; but the cure is often promoted by the employment of two other remedies which Dr. Schenck provides for the purpose. These additional remedies are Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills. By the timely use of these medicines, according to directions, Dr. Schenck certifies that most any case of Consumption may be cured.

Dr. Schenck will be at the Quincy House, Boston, on the following Wednesdays, from 9 to 3 o'clock. Jan. 13th and 27th, Feb. 10th and 24th, and March 10th and 24th. Consultation free, but for a thorough examination of the lungs, with the Respirometer, the price is $5.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, Corner Sixth and Arch streets, Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters of advice must be addressed.

TITCOMB'S

Excelsior Liniment

FOR

MAN AND BEAST.

The remarkable cures it has effected classes it as one of the most important and valuable remedies ever discovered for the cure and relief of pain in any form with which suffering humanity is afflicted. It cures Neuralgia, Face Ache, Rheumatism, Gout, Frosted Feet, Chilblains, Sore Throat, Bruises and Wounds of every nature, in which the effects of external applications are almost magical. Physicians prescribe it for their patients and accord it their unhesitating approval as an invaluable discovery.

We append a few of the many testimonials bearing testimony to the universal favor with which this medicine has been received by the public.

TESTIMONIALS.

H. L. TITCOMB, Esq.

Dear Sir: As you are aware during the recent severe cold weather, I have been "professionally" visiting Maine, during which time I took a violent cold which settled in my back and limbs in the form of rheumatism. Two applications of your invaluable liniment to the afflicted parts (dried in before the fire just before retiring) gave instant relief and restored me to my usual health. In my extensive practice I have used various kinds of liniment, but none equal to yours.

GILES'

LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA.

A MESSAGE TO THE SUFFERING.

When a remedy is productive of such relief as to excel all other remedies in its curative qualities, it is a duty to make it known as generally as possible. This feeling has induced the proprietor, WM. M. GILES, to bring before the public his LINIMENT IODIDE AMMONIA.

The remarkable cures it has effected classes it as one of the most important and valuable remedies ever discovered for the cure and relief of pain in any form. It cures Neuralgia, Face Ache, Rheumatism, Gout, Frosted Feet, Chilblains, Sore Throat, Erysipelas, Bruises and Wounds of every nature, in which the effects of external applications are almost magical, and in which its internal administration is found to be most efficacious. Physicians prescribe it for their patients and accord it their unhesitating approval as an invaluable discovery.

The LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA is an essential appointment in all well-regulated stables, and where large numbers of horses are provided for, and where there is a liability to the visitation of a class of epidemic diseases for which this preparation is a recognized remedy. No stable should be without it, for no stable can really be deemed safe that is not supplied with it.

We append a few of the many testimonials bearing testimony to the universal favor with which this medicine has been received by the public.

Testimonials.

In stiffness and soreness of the muscles and joints, rheumatic pains, I have experienced immediate relief from GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA.

THOMAS BAKER, Wallack's Theatre.

For headache, neuralgia, sore throat, inflamed joints of the feet, GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA gave immediate relief.

I. HENRY MAGONIGLE, Booth's Theatre.

MR. WM. M. GILES, Chemist, 451 Sixth Avenue: I suffered with rheumatic pains in my limbs and joints, and found no relief until I tried your LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA with immediate relief. I am now cured. ROBERT H. SMITH,

Head Paintsman on board Steamer Jesse Hoyt.

GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA is a sure cure for ague in the breast, and removes all swellings and hard lumps. A NURSING MOTHER.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 7, 1874.

DR. GILES.—While on duty as fireman on engine 47, about ten miles from this city, on Shore Line Road, I was accidentally thrown off against a rock, train under full head, about thirty five miles an hour. Was very badly bruised. Your agent was on board. He furnished me with two bottles of LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA, from which I received the greatest possible benefit. In four days I was able to sit up, and am now ready to commence work. My aged mother also used the Liniment for rheumatism, which it cured. JOHN GAFFNEY.

BARNUM'S HIPPODROME.—We have never found anything equal to GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA. Bruises, wounds, stiffness, lameness, pains in the muscles, swellings immediately disappear. It is just what we long wanted, and we now use nothing else. In thirty years' experience in Europe and America, I have never met anything like it.

J. H. WOODS,

Veterinary Surgeon, Barnum's Hippodrome.

NEW YORK, June 1st.

MR. WM. M. GILES, Chemist: Sir—Your new discovery, LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA, surpasses anything for splints, strains, lameness in the limbs or shoulders, &c., wind galls, and hard, bony swellings on the joints. It is truly marvelous.

Yours very truly, RALPH OGLE,

Veterinary Surgeon, 320 West 26th St.

BOSTON, July 13, 1874.

MR. W. M. GILES.—In the match between the Athletics of Philadelphia and the Boston Club, played July 13th, 1874, at Boston, I fell and dislocated my left knee cap. Your agent fortunately happened to be present. He instantly applied your Liniment, and with instant relief.

HARRY C. SHAFFER, Boston Base Ball Club.

BOSTON, Sept. 14, 1874.

MR. WILLIAM M. GILES, Chemist: DEAR SIR—Your Agent, Mr. Guy S. Fraser, called on me early in July last to introduce your LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA. Being a skeptic in regard to the great variety of articles patented for the cure of all sorts of diseases, I had no faith in your Iodide, but, after a long discussion with your agent, it occurred to me that I had a horse I was using for private that had a shoe blemish on his near forward leg. I told him if he thought it would remove the bunch, I would try it. Suffice it to say, I have used it very persistently until the present time, and I now find it nearly removed, and think it will shortly disappear entirely. From this trial of your remedy I cheerfully recommend its use to any one who has a horse or horses afflicted in this way. I would further say that while using it for the above, the same horse started another bunch on the off leg; the Liniment was applied immediately, and the bunch has disappeared.

FROM THE STATE CAPITAL

The Senate not in Session—Business Transacted in the House—The Burleigh Lumber Bill—A Defaulting Treasurer.

[SPECIAL TO WHIG AND COURIER.]

AUGUSTA, Feb 1. In the Senate this afternoon there was no quorum present, sixteen of the thirty one members of that branch being absent. The result was that the board adjourned. The House held a short session and transacted the usual amount of business although barely a quorum was present.

The Burleigh Lumber Bill

[illegible] ... the Burleigh Lumber Manufacturing Company to which your correspondent has called attention, on account of the extraordinary character of its provisions. To-morrow the Senate will carry out [illegible] and the bill will be referred to the Committee on Manufactures where it will be shorn of its obnoxious features.

Discount on Town Taxes

A bill was reported in the House relating to the abatement on taxes, which limits abatement to ten per cent of the amount of tax [illegible].

Agricultural Society.

An act was reported to incorporate the Bristol Agricultural Society.

Bangor Northern Aroostook Loan Bill

The bill authorizing Bangor to loan its credit in aid of the Northern Aroostook railroad was tabled in the House on motion of Mr Tuell of Brewer. The bill was assigned for to-day, and was on its passage to be engrossed.

A Defaulting County Treasury

Information was received here this afternoon to the effect that Columbus Steward, County Treasurer of Somerset, who was elected last fall by the so-called [illegible] party, is a defaulter in his accounts to the sum of $2000. A few weeks ago Mr Steward left for Canada from which point he has sent a letter to one of his bondsmen and also another to one of his friends, acknowledging his delinquency and hoping that his accounts will be fixed. Steward's sureties are good.

Further Particulars of the Defalcation

Further information from Skowhegan puts the amount of Steward's defalcation at between $5,000 and $6,000. His term as County Treasurer expired December 31st of last year, he having been elected to the position for the first time two years ago last September and not elected last fall, as stated in previous despatch. He had [illegible] two years. His [illegible] was just discovered by his successor when he took possession of the office. Steward is a man about sixty years of age, and was a prominent business man of Somerset county for many years. He is respectably connected and has ever been a man who lived extravagantly but from his carelessness in business operations he has lost largely for [illegible] years past. Quite an amount of his paper as maker and endorser is said to be held by banks on the Kennebec river. His father who is alive was the wealthiest man in Somerset county and he [illegible] $75,000 [illegible] property [illegible]. His brothers are Marcellus Steward of North Anson and [illegible] Parlin of Skowhegan—the former a brother, and the latter a brother in law.

Another Trust Violated—A Stage Driver Runs off with $600

A young man employed as a stage driver by Whitney's line which runs from Bingham to Skowhegan absconded one day last week with a package containing $600 or more belonging to Dinsmore Brothers of Bingham, which was placed in his hands to carry to Skowhegan to forward by Eastern Express from that point. He was last heard from on the line of the Grand Trunk [illegible] at Danville Junction where it is reported he bought a ticket for Chicago. While at Danville Junction he forwarded to the agent of the Eastern Express Company at Skowhegan a sum of money that he had realized from several collections entrusted to his care by the Express Company from various parties in Bingham, so that the Express Company does not suffer much loss. The only motive the fellow had in turning the money to the company was probably his fear that the company in their vigilance would detect him as they have others in that section who have been guilty of collecting money for them and then running off with it, but who have been speedily brought to justice in every instance.

The Cumberland County Treasury Robbery—Hammond Up for Perjury.

[TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The hearing in the case of Geo C Hammond for perjury was commenced in the Municipal Court here at 5 o'clock this evening. [illegible] was re-examined respecting the deposition of Hammond before Governor Dingley when the requisition was obtained for the arrest of the alleged County Treasury robbers, and James alias "Mouse" Hayes swore that the portion of the deposition relating to himself was false, that he never had any business relations with Hammond, though he saw him a short time before and after the robbery, and had not been to New York. The hearing was adjourned to to-morrow at nine o'clock. E F Pillsbury Esq is counsel for the accused. Ex-Treasurer Pennell is present at the trial.

Death of Representative Gilpatrick

Orrin Gilpatrick, member of the Legislature, from Somerville, Lincoln county, died at his residence yesterday, of lung fever, aged 64 years. He left here sick Saturday week.

FROM PORTLAND.

Criminals Disposed of.

PORTLAND, Feb. 1. C. P. Knight of Bethel has been sent to South Paris jail in default of $8 000 bail on the charge of obtaining money under false pretences. In the Superior Court to-day Henry Green was sentenced to five years in the State prison for violating a little girl, and Jeremiah Reagan four years as a common thief.

The Stolen County Funds not to be Replaced by the Treasurer.

The County Commissioners do not understand that Treasurer Pennell offers to make good the money lost by the late robbery, and lawyers disagree as to the liability of his bondsmen under the State law.

FROM ROCKLAND.

Sudden Death in Church.

ROCKLAND, Feb 1. Captain John Bickmore, a citizen of St. George, died suddenly in church last evening of heart disease. Age about sixty.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

FORTY-THIRD CONGRESS--Second Session.

WASHINGTON February 1

Senate.

The Vice President laid before the Senate the credentials of Henry L. Dawes U S Senator from Massachusetts for 6 years from March 4th, 1875. Read and placed on file.

Mr. Sherman called up the House bill to amend the national bank act and fixing the compensation of national bank examiners reported from the Finance Committee last week with amendments, which were agreed to and the bill passed.

Mr Wright introduced bills to prohibit the manufacture importation and sale of liquors as a beverage in the District of Columbia and Territories of the United States. Referred to the Finance Committee.

At the expiration of the morning hour the consideration of Mr. Schurz's resolution relating to Louisiana was resumed and Mr. West of Louisiana took the floor.

House.

The time of the House thus far has been occupied in the discussion of the points of order [illegible] the proposition to amend the rules. These propositions were referred to the Committee on Rules.

The House passed the Senate bill providing for the payment of interest on the 3.65 bonds of the District of Columbia, with an amendment inserting the words "in currency." This amendment requires the bill to go back to the Senate.

John B. [illegible], elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Rice of Illinois, was sworn in.

Mr Bromberg of Alabama made a point of order that the unfinished portion of the journal of Wednesday should be read but the Speaker overruled the point.

Under the call of States for bill for [illegible] Mr. Hale introduced a resolution to change the rules of the House by adding the following as a new [illegible]: Whenever a question is pending the [illegible] shall not entertain any motion of [illegible] except one motion to adjourn and one motion to fix the day to which the House shall adjourn. But the question on the engrossment and reading of a bill or joint resolution [illegible] ordered during the first day of [illegible] unless three-fourths of the members present shall second the demand. [illegible] not apply to House [illegible] offered in the morning hour of [illegible] provided further, that it shall [illegible] any proposition to appropriate money, the credit or other property of the United States, except the regular appropriation bills.

Randall of Pennsylvania made a point of order, which after a discussion [illegible] and the resolution was referred to the Committee on Rules.

[illegible] of Pennsylvania also offered resolutions to change the rules, providing [illegible] substantially the same [illegible] offered by Mr Hale of Maine that [illegible] Committee may report bills [illegible] Mondays and Thursdays [illegible] that the House by a majority [illegible] further reading of [illegible] after its reading shall have [illegible] thirty minutes.

[illegible] was also made by Mr [illegible] discussed and overruled and an appeal from that decision was taken by Randall and Beck. The appeal [illegible] in writing, as follows: [illegible] undersigned have taken an appeal [illegible] decision of the Chair made this [illegible] permits the reading of House [illegible] intended for reference to the [illegible] Rules to the exclusion of the [illegible] to be proceeded with and rule [illegible] (Signed) SAMUEL J RANDALL, JAMES B BECK.

Mr Garfield of Ohio objected to the presentation of such a paper.

The Speaker remarked that the appeal was presented in an unusual way. He did not decide that such resolution should be [illegible] the exclusion of the business first provided for.

Mr Randall—That is what I say. I now appeal.

The Speaker—But neither the gentleman from Pennsylvania nor the gentleman from Kentucky has a right to say so. The matter should go before the House regularly. The paper presented is wholly unusual.

After some further colloquy the Speaker stated that he [illegible] to writing his decision, which was that a resolution to amend the rules may be read and referred to the Committee on Rules during the first call of States on the morning hour of Monday and that that constitutes a [illegible] according to the usage of the House and [illegible] the decision the gentleman from Pennsylvania had appealed.

Mr Randall's intent [illegible] of appeal having been brought back to him he stated that he had not [illegible] and was informed by the Speaker that there was no necessity for withdrawing it, as the Chair had not ruled.

An attempt at further discussion was [illegible] by loud calls for the regular order.

Mr Kasson of Iowa moved to lay Mr Randall's appeal on the table. Agreed to—yeas 175, nays 84—a strict party vote. Mr Cessna's resolution was then referred to the Committee on Rules.

Subsequently Mr Butler moved to suspend the rules so as to allow a report for amending the rules to be made at once, and providing that no dilatory motions be entertained during the discussion of the rules [illegible] not to exceed one hour. Great excitement prevailed during the vote, it being ascertained that the majority lacked four of the required two-thirds. Absent members were hunted up during the roll-call. Excited colloquies took place as votes were recorded, and the motion failed—yeas 170, nays 86, two votes less than two-thirds. It was a strict party vote except Smart of Virginia Rep who voted aye. His vote the other way would have carried the motion. After motion to suspend the rules was lost—173 to 89, and at 6 p m, on motion of Mr Garfield, the House took a recess till 10 o'clock to-morrow, when Monday's session will be resumed.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Fire Matters.

CONCORD, N. H., Feb. 1. The report of the Chief Engineer of the fire department of this city, for the year 1874, shows that there were but fifteen fires in all, three of the number being so slight that the firemen were not required to work. Ten of the fires occurred within the fire precinct and the remainder in East and West Concord and Fisherville. Total loss, $21,201.70. The loss within the precinct was less than one-half of this amount, being $10,601.70. This is considered a most excellent showing of the efficiency of the fire department and the value and power of the Long Pond water with which the city is supplied.

NEW YORK CITY.

The Weather.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. The weather this morning here is clear and cold. Some four inches of snow fell last night and horse car travel is seriously impeded. The wind is west. There is but very little ice in the river this morning.

Ice.

Two and one half millions tons of ice have already been secured in the Hudson river, and the supply at present is inexhaustible.

Winding up its Affairs

The New York Loan and Indemnity Co is winding up its affairs preparatory to retiring from business. It is said that the reputation is injured by the acts of its former President H. H. Van Dyck and certain of its Directors. It is stated that through the Directors, Hoyt and McKinney, loans of some $200,000 were made to the New York Boston & Montreal Railroad. The notes were endorsed by McKinney, the stock of the road, an interest in the real estate and a lien on the rolling stock being taken as collateral security. The loans were not paid at maturity and it is reported that in the meantime the [illegible] road [illegible] in the Board of Directors bought up the stock of the Company with a view to control its affairs. At the election in October 1871 [illegible] Park and several other Directors retired from the Board and a new organization was effected. The money [illegible] paid in November [illegible] reached nearly $1,000,000, which has been gradually reduced to $123 000. The officers of the Company state that they have cash on hand and cash assets abundantly sufficient to pay every depositor in full on presentation.

The Clearing House

The Clearing House will cease to take its check after February 6th. The stockholders are to make searching inquiries as to the management of the Company, and its connections with the New York, Boston & Montreal Railroad.

A Large Amount of Mutilated Currency.

Large numbers of poor children in the vicinity of 9th and 10th Avenues and West 9th street have been found with large quantities of five, two and one dollar bills, all good bills, but with the middle part cut out as if by machinery. The corners or the first part cut off and the bottom and top strips of the ones in [illegible] two [illegible]. They were of a National Bank of New York's [illegible] the name of the [illegible] is [illegible] President [illegible] Spraker. Thirty [illegible] fourteen pounds of these mutilated bills bought of some unknown party by a rag vender, representing over a million dollars and one poor family had a salt bag full, which, if perfect, would be worth $25 000.

ARKANSAS.

The Select Committee's Report

NEW YORK, Feb 1. A Washington special says the select committee to inquire into the condition of affairs in Arkansas have agreed upon their report. The committee consists of Messrs. Poland, Ward, Sayler, Sloss and Sadler. The report of the majority will be signed by all except Ward and will not recommend any Federal interference to overthrow the Garland Government. Ward's minority report will hold that the Garland Government is the product of a revolution and is illegal. The majority of the committee will admit irregularities and frauds by which the Garland Government was placed in power but do not find any authority for the Federal Government to overthrow a constitution and a government authorized by it which was evidently adopted by every large majority of the voters of the State even though the actual methods prescribed by the former constitution were not followed in the adoption of the new. This report will doubtless settle the policy of Congress towards Arkansas though it will not be agreeable to the Senators from that State.

WASHINGTON

The Colored Men's Address

WASHINGTON Feb 1. A number of representative colored men now in Washington from several of the Southern States, including Representative Rapier of Alabama, P B Pinchback, A M Gibbs of Arkansas, Geo W Price of North Carolina, together with Fred Douglass, Geo T Downing, Professor Langston and Sampson [illegible] Drs Purvis and Augusta [illegible] have held private meetings recently and now have published the result of their deliberations. They conclude their address as follows: "Considering that every Democratic victory, whether won in a Northern State or upon the floor of Congress, tends directly to increase the audacity and lawlessness of the enemies of [illegible] the dominant [illegible] now established and further [illegible] that next to the malignant [illegible] of a Democratic victory is the [illegible] of a third [illegible] of the rights by our friends; considering moreover that any [illegible] action on the part of the Federal Government in arresting [illegible] apparent apathy and indifference to the condition of the loyal people of the South is promptly construed by these disloyal enemies into license and impunity to renew their [illegible] and [illegible] violence; we should look at the wretched condition of things which may [illegible] be expected to follow in that section of our country if, in view of the circumstances now existing in the United States, Congress should [illegible] adjourn without enacting and providing for the enforcement of appropriate laws for the better protection of person, property, and political rights in that section and considering that we belong to the class of citizens who would suffer most by the non-action of Congress, we earnestly ask for relief. If affairs are permitted to proceed as now it requires no unusual foresight to see that the colored citizens of the South will be either driven into neutrality or for self-protection forced to act with their old oppressors in the Democratic party, and the latter is more probable than the former. As a peaceful organization for the purpose [illegible] neutrality would naturally excite suspicion, surveillance and violence, there is still one other alternative to which we are exposed, one which is truly fearful to contemplate. There are in our varieties of man, but only one human nature; and it is possible that, stung to madness and desperation by continued and unceasing outrages, and seeing no means of escape, a spirit of retaliation and revenge may be aroused which will fill the South with scenes of rapine, blood and fire. To avoid this catastrophe we earnestly appeal to Congress for the action already mentioned and we will invite the sympathy and support to this appeal of all the lovers of liberty and order throughout the country. Signed—Fred A Douglass, J M Langston, A M Gibbs of Arkansas, Philip Joseph of Alabama, Geo W Rice of North Carolina, Committee. J A Emerson of Arkansas, Secretary."

Scott's Railroad Bill.

The Senate Committee on Railroads held their meeting on the so-called Texas & Pacific railroad bill this morning, but took no final action, although much discussion has taken place the whole thing is still in abeyance. It is now understood that no action will take place till Senator Ramsey, a member of the committee now on his way to Washington, shall have arrived.

CONNECTICUT.

A Heavy Blast.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. Burglars, in blowing out a safe in the Greenwich Savings Bank at Greenwich, Conn., yesterday morning, blew out one side of the whole building and wrecked the house generally. They obtained, however, only the paltry sum of six or seven dollars, as the inner door of the safe was uninjured. No arrests.

THE TILTON BEECHER CASE.

Judge Neilson's Ruling—Tilton Admitted as a Witness.

NEW YORK, Feb 1. Judge Neilson resumed his seat on the bench in the Brooklyn City Court Room a few minutes before the usual hour of opening. The room was packed, as usual, and Mrs. Tilton, Mrs. Field and two other ladies were conspicuous in the throng. Mr Beecher, with his wife and sons, occupied their accustomed places. After the court had been called to order, Judge Neilson gave his opinion as to the right to testify of Mr Tilton in the following words:

"In determining the question raised by this objection the Court holds, first, that the plaintiff is competent to be sworn and to testify in his own behalf, second that as to the principal questions at issue, he is not competent to testify as to any confidential communication, it is considered that this qualified direction respects the present state of the law of evidence, and also respects what may remain of the rule which imposes silence or restraint by reason of the marital relation and on grounds of public interest or policy."

Tilton Takes the Stand

Theodore Tilton then took the stand, and was sworn, the defence entering an exception to the ruling of the court. In reply to ex-Judge Fullerton the witness testified: I am the plaintiff in this suit; am thirty-nine years of age, was born in the city of New York, [illegible] I was married on the 2d of October 1855, by Mr Beecher; [illegible] I have been engaged in literary profession; I have been connected with the New York Observer, Mechanic, Independent, Brooklyn Eagle, and the Golden Age. I became connected with the Independent in the spring of 1856 and remained there under Mr Beecher, and on his retirement I became his successor. Mr Beecher retained [illegible] editorship of the Independent either the year 1863 or 1864. I held the position of managing director and Mr Beecher of this paper. My wife was a member of the Plymouth Church about three years before I [illegible] acquainted with her. I have been acquainted with Francis D. Moulton [illegible] perhaps in 1848 or 1849.

Tilton's Finances

In December 1870 I owned the house in which I lived with its library valued at about $2,000. I owned a share in the New York Tribune, [illegible] $1,000 [illegible] piece of land in Prospect Park valued at $1,000; there was a mortgage of $7,000 on my house when I left the Independent. My property was valued [illegible] $40,000 [illegible] Woodruff and Robinson after January 1, 1871 [illegible] $7,000 [illegible] from Mr Gowen, $5,000 from my lecturing tour, $1,000 from my books, [illegible] from Mr Moulton and [illegible] $5,000 from subscribers of the Golden Age. I had no [illegible] other than the Golden Age [illegible] I did not know the source from which the money came which was given to me by Mr Moulton; I did not know it came from Mr Beecher. On the 30th of December 1870, I had an interview with Mr Beecher.

Mr Evarts here objected to the witness giving any evidence further into any statement made to the witness by his wife. Judge Neilson ruled that the witness could say what passed between himself and Mr Beecher, but not what his wife had told him.

An Interview with Beecher

Mr Moulton brought Mr Beecher and retired. I did not invite Mr Beecher [illegible] I crossed the room and locked the door. I went back and sat down opposite Mr Beecher. I began in this way: I think I said, "I presume you have received from Mr Bowen a letter demanding your retirement from your pulpit and from Brooklyn." He answered "I did." I told him [illegible] for that letter. He thanked me and I told him [illegible] Elizabeth deserved his thanks [illegible] He said he understood the object of this [illegible] only in general terms [illegible] Mr Bowen had [illegible] it would be better for him to go to Mr Bowen [illegible] I told him Mr Bowen had [illegible] intimate with [illegible] members of his congregation for the past 25 years [illegible] that Mr Bowen had said that he had [illegible] Mr Beecher out of Brooklyn in 12 hours. I told him that at [illegible] interview with Mr Bowen I told it to my wife [illegible] distressed and [illegible] in the previous [illegible] I would not [illegible] my promise [illegible] Mr Beecher [illegible] Brooklyn [illegible] Mr Beecher asked me what I meant by her [illegible] I told him Elizabeth's letter of confession [illegible] by her two [illegible] and the copy of it was destroyed on that evening.

A Contested Point.

The witness was going on to give the contents of this letter of [illegible] but it was objected to by Mr Evarts and [illegible] the Judge [illegible] decided that the [illegible] of the letter should be left out for the present.

Tilton Continues.

The witness then continued: Mr Beecher was about to reply but I said hear me out and [illegible] Mr Tilton told me [illegible] in July Mrs Tilton [illegible] unexpectedly from the country and told me she had a burden on her mind which she wished to throw off; that she had several times [illegible] promise that [illegible] should [illegible] to the [illegible] person or disclosure of the [illegible] between her and the Rev H W Beecher that friendship had developed into love and their sexual intercourse [illegible] after the death of her son Paul [illegible] visiting Mr Beecher on the 10th of October 1868 she had surrendered her body to him and the following Saturday evening at her residence the act had been repeated, and that this had continued from the fall of 1868 to the spring of 1870, but in the fall of 1870 she had communicated these facts to me, that he had professed to me that Mr Beecher had for her a warmer love than for any other woman; that his home was not happy; that his solicitations had been frequent and in many cases almost violent, that he felt she could never look me in the face until she had made a full and open confession and that she had come from the country to make this confession. I would not say this was entirely as this interview happened, but it is as near as I can recollect and taken from a small memorandum book I possessed. I then told Mr Beecher that Mrs Tilton had gone to the country a broken-hearted woman, and had returned a few weeks previous to this interview. I told him that my wife had insisted on my being the bearer of the letter to him, which I refused, and she begged me to have a friendly interview with him, and I said that if she agreed, I would request Mr. Moulton to begin about an interview between Mr Beecher and myself, to which she agreed.

Conclusion of the Interview.

I felt great reluctance that Mr Moulton should know the facts. I pledged Mr Beecher my word that I would not assist Mr Bowen in any attempts he might make on him (Beecher). At the conclusion of the narrative Mr Beecher's head and neck were flushed with blood, and I feared an accident. He said: "Theodore, I am in a dream, this is like Dante's Inferno." He rose up, and I opened the door and said he was free to go. He asked me if I would allow him to see Elizabeth, which I granted, as he promised not to upbraid her, for, if he did so, I threatened to strike him ten-fold. He stood a moment on the threshold, and putting his hands on his head, he said: "This is all a wild whirl." Mr Moulton met Mr Beecher on the stairway, and I heard Mr. Beecher say to him, "Have you seen Elizabeth's confession," and he answered that he had, and Mr Beecher said: "This will kill me." Mr. Moulton and Mr Beecher then entered the parlor, and the door was closed.

The Recess.

The court here took the usual recess. During the relation of this narrative, Mrs. Beecher smiled frequently, and Mr. Beecher occasionally, but no other signs or manifestations produced by the testimony were observed in their faces. Mr Tilton gave this evidence in a calm, cool way, which to all appearances carried the air of truth about it. After the recess Mr. and Mrs. Beecher were surrounded by their friends, and, after a few moments spent in congratulations, they left the court-room.

After Recess—Tilton Continues.

After the recess Mr. Tilton resumed the stand, and continued his testimony. He was asked by ex-Judge Fullerton to state the contents of the letter read to Beecher at that interview. This was objected to by Mr. Evarts, as the letter had been destroyed. It was accordingly ruled out by the court. Mr. Beach argued that this paper had been prepared, and should be submitted.

LOUISIANA.

The Proposed Compromise.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. A New Orleans despatch to the Times says, Sunday night Gov Kellogg and Marshal Packard, representing the Republicans, and Messrs. Leonard and Jeffries on behalf of the Democrats, met to arrange the terms of the proposed compromise, Mr Frye of the Congressional Committee, was present during the consultation. One of the propositions made was that Kellogg be recognized as Governor and Penn as Lieut. Governor. Such recognition however, would involve an investigation into the election of 1872, and the Committee refuses to touch upon that point. In addition to this it may be mentioned that the negro element in the Republican party will not agree to any settlement by which Antoine (mulatto) Lieut. Governor, loses his seat. The consultation was continued until a late hour and then adjourned till evening. Leading men of both parties are sanguine that a compromise will be entered into but it will be remembered that all previous efforts in the same direction have failed completely.

A Marriage in State Prison

COLUMBUS, Feb 1. About a thousand persons, including members of the General Assembly, municipal officers and citizens, visited the chapel at the Ohio Penitentiary yesterday to witness the marriage of Thos Welland and Mary Scott, two convicts, whose term for burglary expired to-day. They were engaged to be married at the time the burglary was committed, and rather than be separated from her lover Mary pleaded guilty and consented to an imprisonment of two years.

EL PASO AND PACIFIC ROAD

Charges Made by the N Y Sun

NEW YORK, Feb 1. The Sun prints five columns of documents showing that stock and money was paid to several members of Congress by Fremont and friends interested in his El Paso and Pacific railroad. The amount used to bribe Congress was eleven millions of dollars. Among the persons given shares were [illegible] W Scott Smith 100, M C Hunter, $600, R C McCormick, $1000, Frank Fuller 100, Geo Heintzelman 100 and a transfer of $2,500,000 worth of shares and cash to the amount of $500 000 was made to [illegible]. The Sun says that before the passage of the Pacific Railroad bill in 1871, a friend of Thomas A. Scott determined to control the enterprise and throw Fremont out into the cold. This was accomplished by having it understood that after the passage of the bill and organization of the company a construction company would be formed and controlled by the Senate through stock held by the Senators in another company. A contract was entered into with the Texas & Pacific company for building the road, from which very large profits would be made. After the passage of the bill a large number of members of Congress became directly or indirectly interested in said construction company and but for the privilege of taking stock in said company never would have voted for the bill. Gen Butler took a very large quantity of stock and was conspicuous in his efforts to secure the passage of the bill and was also known on the floor of the House as a leader and wire puller of the Tom Scott faction. [illegible] Tom Scott now [illegible] on the stockholders of the California & Texas construction company in the House and Senate. An honest investigation would show several millions of stock held by Senators and Members and their near confidential friends and relatives, and also that Fremont originally controlled the Senate through stock held by Senators in the other road.

THE UNION SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING. A large audience gathered in the vestry of the Second Baptist Church last evening to listen to the discussion of the resolutions already mentioned in these columns. W. P. Hubbard Esq presided. Quite a large number took part in the meeting. The resolutions were adopted. Although there was a seeming diversity of opinion respecting some of the points made by the committee on resolutions, there was a hearty concurrence in their suggestion that a day of fasting and prayer for the Sabbath Schools of this city be appointed. The vote was taken by rising and was unanimous. The time fixed upon was one week from to-day. We understand that the meetings for that day will be held, in the afternoon and evening in the vestry of the First Parish Church. No one could look upon the enthusiastic gathering of the officers and teachers of the various Sabbath Schools of the city last evening without the conviction that these people have their work and are not to be forced from it by any [illegible]. The Tragedy at Six-Mile Falls

It is a somewhat unusual occurrence that a shooting case like that which resulted in the death of Isaac P. Crowell, at Six-Mile Falls, on Thursday afternoon last should go so long without official investigation. The advantages to be derived from an inquest by a coroner's jury is first and mainly from the promptness with which it is called, and its consideration of everything bearing upon the case while each detail is fresh in the minds of those concerned and while the body and its surroundings are undisturbed.

In the present instance, by a curious combination of circumstances, no coroner was available. The term of office of the one in Bangor had lapsed, and a new appointment had been made to fill the vacancy. Coroner Lancaster, of Oldtown was "snow bound" up country and so the matter has been delayed till his return. He reached home on Saturday, and will to-day empanel a jury and hold an inquest. The jury will view the body this forenoon, which lies in the receiving tomb at Mt. Hope, and proceed to the scene of the tragedy, when the witnesses will be examined.

From information received from various sources, there seems to be a general impression among those living at Six-Mile Falls, and in that vicinity, that the gun was in the hands of Smith when it was discharged. This idea is partly gathered from the varied statements of Smith himself, who has emphatically denied, however that he had touched the gun in any way.

While many of the neighbors think the shooting of Crowell an accident, there are still others who as strongly think it was intentional, and are not at all careful to conceal this opinion. In order to justify so grave a suspicion there must appear some motive for the deed, and the first suggestion of a motive is now claimed to appear in the money of Crowell. When he went to Six-Mile Falls some seven months since he is said to have had $150 in his possession, and since that time he has been earning and saving. Since his death it is reported that but $5 have been found and the whereabouts of the balance is unknown. It may be the money was [illegible] away to friends, if so the fact can be easily discovered.

There are also rumors of other unfortunate accidents with which Smith is said to have been connected, but [illegible] there is no end to the [illegible] with which the public [illegible] up a long record for that individual.

In the interests of justice to the living no less than to the dead, it is to be sincerely hoped that the truth, and the whole truth will be brought to light.

The ... of GRADING AND RATING Life Risks cannot be applied by any other company already started since if it should adopt the method of grading the best risks now insured in it would of course drop their present policies to take out better ones to wit, at the lower premiums to which they are entitled but the inferior risks would stay and pay the premiums so much less than they ought to be for them.

The idea of Term Life Natural Premiums is not applied by the other companies because, as they say they would not, on their average plan of taking all insured persons at the same premiums get enough to cover the expense of the ... more ... losses.

Hence all other companies make faces" at the American Popular and call names about which it does not care a fig, if it can only, as it does, secure the approbation of the scientific and thoughtful, and the patronage of the probably long-lived.
